

Press Release

3-Ways

6.30.18-8.19.18

Opening Reception: 6.30.18 6:30pm-10:00pm

Architecture tends to point and communicate with itself through more than one final output. The drawings communicate to the physical model, the model is understood in the text and the text specifies things in the drawings which helps understand the totality of the project. 3-Ways is A+D's Guest Curator Program's inaugural collaboration. 3-Ways was conceptualized by A+D Chief Curator, Anthony Morey, and Guest Curator Program members, Ryan Tyler Martinez, Ivan Bernal, through a series of conversations on how to create a platform for plan, section, and elevation to communicate with each other at a 1:1 scale within the museum. 3-Ways explores these themes of scale and communication through a series of projections by over 30 participating architects, designers, and artists. The sheer size of the structures being projected upon creates an immersive experience which draws the audience's attention to these themes

A+D's Guest Curator Program

The Guest Curator Program was motivated by the A+D's desire to provide an opportunity for curators to collaborate, create, and experiment within the walls of the museum on emerging modes of curation, media, and untapped mediums. The Program is an evolving body of professionals and academics from different backgrounds gathered in the effort to initiate conversations of how to expand upon and rupture traditional modes of curating architecture and design.
